Welcome, my creative friends!

This DIY project will help you organize your color swatches in a convenient easy-to-use way.

A color swatch fan takes up less room on your table than a journal and provides quick access to your color collection. It can store hundreds of colors from different sets in a well-organized logical order. No wonder interior designers love their color fans so much!

Now, you have an opportunity to make your own color swatch fan and decorate it with your own art. Just add color to the cover template and draw flowers, stars, unicorns, or whatever else pleases your eye. It is your project, and you get to decide how to personalize it.

To make sure you get the best results possible after finishing this project, there are few brief instructions for you to skim through.

But first, if you complete this project and find it useful in your everyday coloring, please, share your results with the group. Everyone likes a little inspiration.

Now to the instructions, they're quite simple.

Instructions

Print templates on paper of your choice depending on what coloring medium you're swatching – colored pencils, markers, watercolors, ink, or something other.

Cut out the templates; use scissors with caution. Decide where the pivot point will be – left, right, or center. This may be different depending on your personal preferences and whether you're right-handed or left-handed. Use a hole-puncher or carefully cut out a pivot point mark. The fan can be held together on a ring or a ribbon.

Important: to increase durability, you may want to stick templates on top of hard cardstock or plastic – use stick glue or double-sided adhesive tape to prevent paper from curling.

Each sheet has six color slots and space beneath them to write down numbers and names of each color for easy reference.

Blank Cover templates – give your fan a unique name.

Name Of The Brand templates – write down the name of the brand and color count, e.g. Prismacolor™, Watercolor, 36 ct.

Have fun, and happy crafting and swatching!
